The Colorado Health Foundation™

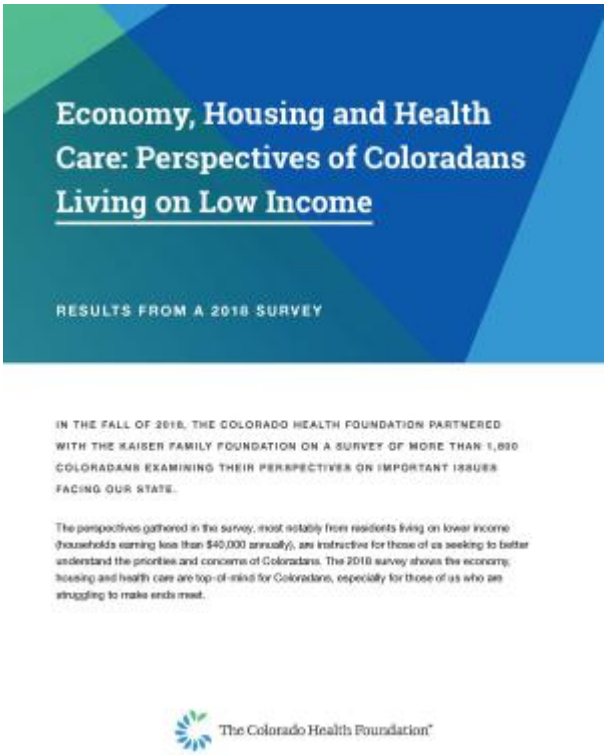

Economy, Housing and Health Care: Perspectives of Coloradans Living on Low Income

Publication Date

February, 2019

Download

Brief: Economy, Housing and Health Care: Perspectives of Coloradans Living on Low Income

In the fall of 2018, the Colorado Health Foundation partnered with the Kaiser Family Foundation on a survey of more than 1,800 Coloradans examining their perspectives on important issues facing our state.

Colorado's overall economy may be growing, but many of us still experience real challenges when it comes to our quality of life. A new brief with data from the Foundation's statewide survey highlights Coloradans' perspectives on the economy, housing and health care – with a focus on the disparities reported by those of us living on low income.

Additional Resources:

- Full Report: Coloradans' Perspectives on Health, Quality of Life, and Midterm Elections